[A profanity riddled Christmas trailer featuring the anti-White, anti-Christian jewess Sarah Silverman. The now removed comment section on YouTube was heavily critical of the message. BTW, the title "Santa Inc" also happens to be an anagram of "Satanic" if you leave out an "n"!

Thomas Hardy, in the YouTube comments, left these handy old Russian proverbs. Apparently Russians had a strong dislike for elves!

A Elf's love is worse than a hangman's noose.

You want to ruin a Elf, don't do business with him.

The Elf will always tell you what happened to him, but he will never tell you why.

A baptised Elf is like a tamed wolf.

Call a Elf your brother and he will call himself your father.

Run with Elves, wake up with sins.

For a Elf, souls are cheaper than coins.

A Elf will say he was beaten, but will never say for what.

The Elf cries out in pain as he strikes you.

Invite a Elf in your house for a day and you won't get rid of him in a year.

A Elf is always ready to cross himself if he profits from it.

Whoever serves a Elf will not avoid disaster.

A Elf takes you not by force, but by temptation.

First a Elf treats you to a drink, then he makes you a drunkard.

A Elf stinks as badly as he looks.

Where a Elf walks, men's tears flow.

A Elf in business is like a leech on the skin.

A Elf boasts of things a gentile repents for.

What God loves, a Elf discards.

Wherever a Elf goes, misfortune brews.

Did you know? Elves have been knocked off of at least 109 shelves?

Somehow they always end up climbing back on and making rules about knocking them off.

And they always display the same voracious elfnocentrism that got them knocked off the shelf in the first place.

Some might suggest that it's simply time to take the shelf down.

The international elf is the world's foremost problem.

Two sleighs, three toy towers? How does that happen?

You'd have to ask Lucky Larry Silverelf. He got a massive insurance payout and a new toy tower out of the deal.

Some say they even saw elves dancing in the street after the two sleigh crashes.

There is simply no way Santa could have delivered that many presents. There were only 10 toy makers at 5 locations. Best case scenario, if the elves were making toys 24/7, Santa could have maybe delivered 1/4 of the presents claimed to have been delivered. Even if this figure were correct, where did all of the wrapping paper go? Also why were there toy repair workshops at the North Pole if the toys were just going to be sent off anyways? Why take the time and manpower to repair toys when it would've been cheaper and more effective to just destroy the toy and make another? I'm not saying it didn't happen, but EVERY child getting a toy? Impossible.

Kinda curious how only the toy shops on the East Side, the ones that weren't inspected by the US, were said to have dangerous working conditions.

In fact, it was found that none of the toy shops in the West of the North Pole that the US investigated were any different from the toy shops in the US.

Only the toy shops investigated by the Bolshevi-elf were found to have dangerous working conditions.

Even then- I can't imagine that twice times three million elves could get hurt working with wooden hammers.

The sign is a subtle joke. The shop is called "Sneed's Feed & Seed", where "feed" and "seed" both end in the sound "-eed", thus rhyming with the name of the owner, Sneed. The sign says that the shop was "Formerly Chuck's", implying that the two words beginning with "F" and “S” would have ended with “-uck”, rhyming with “Chuck”. So, when Chuck owned the shop, it would have been called “Chuck’s Feeduck and Seeduck”.

Experiment: Over the next week or two ask 10 to 20 people randomly their nationality. You will here things like “German, Irish, Polish, Russian, Haitian, French, etc”. Oddly, if you ask an elf they will always say “I’m elfish”. This is because nationality doesn’t matter to them. They are elves before anything else. They don’t have a true nationality. Their elfishness is all that matters. Perhaps this why they never have assimilated in any of the 109 countries they’ve been kicked out of. The elf only holds 2 percent of the population at the North Pole yet they run the film, news and media divisions. Most strangely, these same elves have made yet another film to mock the Christian beliefs of the majority. That 22K people so far are finally seeing this is enlightening.

what they don't tell you in this movie is that the elves destroyed the economy and morality of snowman land and blamed them for a world war then they funded Santa's rise to power. it was all a plot to take land that the reindeer had lived in for a few thousand years, and resettle it as elf land. the elves still burn out reindeer settlements today as they expand their elf land boarders, they keep power over the snowmen by using the guilt of evil santa as a way to demoralize and manipulate the snow men into wage slavery, and many snowmen wonder when a new santa will come and free the them from the usury of the elves.

I think there is a resurgence in anti-Elfism because at this point in time the North Pole has not yet learned how to be multicultural. The North Pole isn't going to be the monolithic society we saw in the last century. Elves are going to be at the centre of that transformation – which MUST take place. And elves will be resented for that. It's a huge transformation for the North Pole to make – they are now going into multicultural mode. And elves will be resented because of our leading role, but without that leading role and without that transformation Christmas will not survive.

>The more I argued with them that they were on the naughty list, the better I came to know their dialectic.

First they counted on the stupidity of their adversary, concealing their bad deeds, and then, when there was no other way out, they themselves simply played stupid.

If all this didn't help, they pretended not to understand, or, if challenged, they changed the subject in a hurry, quoted platitudes which, if you accepted them, they immediately related to entirely different matters, placing themselves on the good boys and girls list, and then, if again attacked, gave ground and pretended not to know exactly what you were talking about.

Whenever you tried to attack one of these apostles of naughtiness, your hand closed on a jelly-like slime which divided up and poured through your fingers, but in the next moment collected again into an argument why they were really the good boys and girls.

But if you really struck one of these fellows so telling a blow that, observed by the audience, he couldn't help but agree he belonged on the naughty list, and if you believed that this had taken you at least one step forward, your amazement was great the next day.

The Naughty Boy or Girl had not the slightest recollection of the day before, he rattled off his same old nonsense as though nothing at all had happened, and, if indignantly challenged, affected amazement; he couldn't remember a thing about the naughty deeds, except that he had proved the correctness of his assertions the previous day.

Once upon a time elves never worked at the north pole but in order for them to rule Christmas they built a factory at the pole, needing a mascot they went to Santa's village, Santa poor and wishing for a better life was made into a star as no man or woman trusted elves because of what they did to the south pole before. The elves promised to spoil the children with toys and make the village parents work for them to pay for the presents giving the elves more and more power expanding their elvish domain across the snow globe. This is how the elves came to rule Christmas.

Elves cry about “ElfFace” if a human plays them, yet far more often, Elves play humans. Elves whine about not having enough roles in Christmas movies, despite being 2% of the North Pole’s population and having 70% of all roles; humans are over half of the North Pole’s population and only 10% of all roles.

Elves: “80% of actors in Christmas movies are human! Too many! We need to get rid of human, in Christmas movies and in real life!” Elves count themselves as human only when it’s convenient.

I heard 600 Elves were frosted in the basement of Santa’s Workshop, but here’s what I never understood:

- 1) The frosting chambers had gingerbread doors, thus preventing an adequate seal from forming

- 2) Frosting was commonly used all over the world in an industrial capacity and there were much sweeter & more effective glazes Santa could’ve used instead

- 3) The bakery only had less than 20 ovens, yet I’m supposed to believe Santa baked over 600 Elves by Christmas? Even running 24/7 Santa could only potentially bake 8 Elves per day, as it takes around 3-4 hours to bake an Elf; however, Santa would need to bake nearly 19 Elves per day for these numbers to make sense

- 4) Even after cracking Santa’s code there was still never any mention of a deliberate, industrial-scale campaign to frost the Elves. No documentation exists of any formal plan to frost the Elves, nor any mention of the frosting itself being intended to be used on Elves

- 5) Despite over 600 Elves being frosted, there were actually more Elves after Christmas than before.

- 6) All 600 Elves were supposedly frosted, baked, and then buried in a 33 acre plot that to this day has revealed zero evidence that any Elf remains are found there.

Sorry but this doesn’t add up

The more I argued with them that they were on the naughty list, the better I came to know their dialectic. First they counted on the stupidity of their adversary, concealing their bad deeds, and then, when there was no other way out, they themselves simply played stupid. If all this didn't help, they pretended not to understand, or, if challenged, they changed the subject in a hurry, quoted platitudes which, if you accepted them, they immediately related to entirely different matters, placing themselves on the good boys and girls list, and then, if again attacked, gave ground and pretended not to know exactly what you were talking about. Whenever you tried to attack one of these apostles of naughtiness, your hand closed on a jelly-like slime which divided up and poured through your fingers, but in the next moment collected again into an argument why they were really the good boys and girls. But if you really struck one of these fellows so telling a blow that, observed by the audience, he couldn't help but agree he belonged on the naughty list, and if you believed that this had taken you at least one step forward, your amazement was great the next day. The Naughty Boy or Girl had not the slightest recollection of the day before, he rattled off his same old nonsense as though nothing at all had happened, and, if indignantly challenged, affected amazement; he couldn't remember a thing about the naughty deeds, except that he had proved the correctness of his assertions the previous day.

1. One cannot fight the Elf by positive means. He is a negative, and this negative must be erased from the North Pole system or he will forever corrupt it.

2. One cannot discuss the Elfish question with the Elfs. One can hardly prove to a person that one has the duty to render him harmless.

3. One cannot allow the Elf the same means one would give an honest opponent, for he is no honorable opponent. He will use generosity and nobility only to trap his enemy.

"ELVES could be here" Santa thought as he filled up his sleigh, "I've never been to this part of the North Pole before. There could be ELVES anywhere." the frosty wind felt good against his bare chest. "I HATE ELVES." he thought. 'Baby It's Cold Outside' reverberated his entire sleigh making it pulsate even as $9 eggnog circulated through his powerful thick veins and washed away his (merited) fears of goblins after dark. "With a sleigh, you can go anywhere you want" he said to himself out loud.

The joke is that the place is called "Sneed's Feed and Seed" which is clever in itself and quite funny to those with a mature sense of humor but what's really just hilarious about it is if you look closely at the front of this store, Sneed's Feed and Seed, you can see a sign that reads "Formerly Chuck's". Now, this might go over the average viewer's head as this, THIS is peak comedy. I doubt anything will ever be as funny as the joke about Sneed's Feed and Seed. Are you ready for this one? So, like I said, the place is called "Sneed's Feed and Seed" and the sign says "Formerly Chuck's" which means when Chuck owned the place, well, I don't have to tell you...

Speaking of elf contributions to society as related to Christmas, has anyone else noticed that every single popular Christmas song never mentions Jesus and they were all written by elves? Listen to Rudolph the red nosed reindeer and tell me that song doesn't describe elf culture to a T. Their nose is what makes them unique, they're being called upon by Santa to save everyone, isn't that exactly what Santa's chosen peop- reindeer would do?

But we don't have the coal or gas to power the ovens since we have been losing the North Pole trade war, what are we going to do?
HmMMM, I know, we'll use elf magic!

Thing I don't get is the elves have created a de facto open air prison camp for reindeer in the north pole but if you make any comparisons to what the elves accuse the polar bears of doing to them, you get smeared as an antielfinite.

I heard that they baked the ginger bread men with a machine that stimulates them every time they pressed a button. Also: a gingerbread oven roller coaster. I asked one of the elves for a $100 Amazon card and I think they are hard of hearing despite their ears. He replied with: " $90 gift card, we don't have an $80 dollar gift card, what do you need a $70 gift card for"? Weird. They smelled funny too and were overly obsessed with my children. Especially Jeffery the elf.

the santahedrin 69B says ""Why is a elf who engaged in intercourse with a three-year-old girl who was married to another man liable to receive the death penalty? Say that perhaps it will turn out that she is a sexually underdeveloped woman who is incapable of bearing children, and her husband did not betroth her with this understanding; and consequently the marriage is null, as it was entered into in error. Therefore, a man who engaged in intercourse with her should not be liable to receive the death penalty for adultery. Rather, is it not that we say that one follows the majority, and the majority of women are not sexually underdeveloped women, and therefore the assumption is that the betrothal was valid? This is proof that even in cases of capital law one follows the majority.

I heard 600 Elves were frosted in the basement of Santa's Workshop, but here's what I never understood:

- 1) The frosting chambers had gingerbread doors, thus preventing an adequate seal from forming
- 2) Frosting was commonly used all over the world in an industrial capacity and there were much sweeter & more effective glazes Santa could've used instead
- 4) The bakery only had less than 20 ovens, yet I'm supposed to believe Santa baked over 600 Elves by Christmas? Even running 24/7 Santa could only potentially bake 8 Elves per day, as it takes around 3-4 hours to bake an Elf; however, Santa would need to bake nearly 19 Elves per day for these numbers to make sense
- 5) Even after cracking Santa's code there was still never any mention of a deliberate, industrial-scale campaign to frost the Elves. No documentation exists of any formal plan to frost the Elves, nor any mention of the frosting itself being intended to be used on Elves
- 7) Despite over 600 Elves being frosted, there were actually more Elves after Christmas than before.
- 8) All 600 Elves were supposedly frosted, baked, and then buried in a 33 acre plot that to this day has revealed zero evidence that any Elf remains are found there.

Sorry, but none of this adds up.

The Grinch gets a bad reputation from all the movies and the TV shows, but oddly enough no one who criticizes him has ever read his book or listened to the people who met the Grinch in person. But movies and TV shows aren't reality. The story of the Grinch is fashioned in a way that makes him out to be the attacker, yet all the actions of the "innocent" townsfolk have been removed from the plot of the movie. No one tells you about, for instance, the townspeople on the western border of the Grinch's territory were placing troops and weapons in order to invade the Grinch's territory. And in the East of the Grinch's country, the townspeople there were building railroad lines and air strips poised to attack the Grinch. This is why the Grinch's forces had such great success in the early months of the war, the eastern townspeople had organized millions of troops in attack formations and had no defenses whatsoever. And don't even get me started on how it's not even possible to bake 6,000,000 Christmas cookies in five years.

Everyone is told the Grinch hated Christmas. It's engrained in the popular culture, where as soon as someone says "Grinch" everyone thinks in their mind "hated Christmas." But the truth is, the Christmas we celebrate today is a lie. And no one loved the true Christmas, more than the Grinch himself

Toy vey! The ADelf was specifically formed to combat the exact type of anti-elfism as seen in this comment section.

To this day we stand by Elfy Frank who was a completely innocent, humble toymaker – unjustly convicted of the crime of unwrapping little Mary Phagan’s present, destroying it and dumping it in the cellar.

Even beyond the whole “white people are evil” shtick, the whole “”humor”” of this film comes as concealed disdain and jaded cynicism, as if the writers genuinely hate everything about the holidays. And what’s worse is that like Sausage Party, the animation is wasted on modern “adult entertainment” that consists of spewing sweat words and smoking weed (which hasn’t been funny since what, the late 2000’s?)

When the judge reduced his sentence after doing this to a child, a mob unalived him after dragging him from his prison cell. It was very mean so the ADL was founded 😊

This is real. It’s on the ADL page, as well.

>I heard 600 Elves were frosted in the basement of Santa's Workshop, but here's what I never understood:

>1) The frosting chambers had gingerbread doors, thus preventing an adequate seal from forming

>2) Frosting was commonly used all over the world in an industrial capacity and there were much sweeter & more effective glazes Santa could've used instead

>3) The bakery only had less than 20 ovens, yet I'm supposed to believe Santa baked over 600 Elves by Christmas? Even running 24/7 Santa could only potentially bake 8 Elves per day, as it takes around 3-4 hours to bake an Elf; however, Santa would need to bake nearly 19 Elves per day for these numbers to make sense

>4) Even after cracking Santa's code there was still never any mention of a deliberate, industrial-scale campaign to frost the Elves. No documentation exists of any formal plan to frost the Elves, nor any mention of the frosting itself being intended to be used on Elves

>5) Despite over 600 Elves being frosted, there were actually more Elves after Christmas than before.

>6) All 600 Elves were supposedly frosted, baked, and then buried in a 33 acre plot that to this day has revealed zero evidence that any Elf remains are found there.

>Sorry but this doesn't add up

"Accordingly, it must and dare not be considered a trifling matter but a most serious one to seek counsel against this and to save our souls from the Elves, that is, from Krampus and from eternal death. My advice, as I said earlier, is:

First, that their workshops be burned down, and that all who are able toss in sulphur and coal; it would be good if someone could also throw in some sharp icicles. That would demonstrate to Santa our serious resolve and be evidence to all the North Pole that it was in ignorance that we tolerated such factories, in which the Elves have reviled Santa, our dear Father and toymaker, and his Wife most shamefully up till now but that we have now given them their due reward."

— Martin Luther, The Elves and Their Lies.

They release this immediately after the Waukesha Christmas Parade terror attack? A black man that posted anti-white ideology on his social media murdered and injured so many innocent white people during that Christmas Parade. It is the most deadly mass murder with a vehicle in American History and it was fueled by anti-white racism (which we are now learning is not only real, but also is motivating murders against innocent white people in America).

This movie is insensitive and poorly timed. White people are a people with a white culture and Santa is a part of that. White people as a concept is not evil nor bad in any way. Stop trying to deconstruct whiteness and pin all of the evil in America on whiteness and white people. The creators of this move obviously believe the opposite. This movie, as far as I am concerned, is truly evil. Who supports this?

Gradually I began to hate them.

All this had but one good side: that in proportion as the real leaders or at least the disseminators of Hollywood came within my vision, my love for my people inevitably grew. For who, in view of the diabolical craftiness of these seducers, could damn the luckless victims? How hard it was, even for me, to get the better of thus race of dialectical liars and corruptors!

The last time Santa was this sad was in February of 1933, just before the German Elections of that year. Santa gave the world a GREAT gift that year, and the world rejected it Santa's kindness, which was twisted INTO HATRED by the same "people" who's decedents are producing this... UTTER GARBAGE!

The best Christmas films are timeless, so you can potentially watch them every year.

Whoever wrote this can't get their head out of current year.

“ELVES could be here” Santa thought as he filled up his sleigh, “I’ve never been to this part of the North Pole before. There could be ELVES anywhere.” the frosty wind felt good against his bare chest. “I HATE ELVES.” he thought. ‘Baby It’s Cold Outside’ reverberated his entire sleigh making it pulsate even as cheap $9 eggnog circulated through his powerful thick veins and washed away his (merited) fears of goblins after dark. “With a sleigh, you can go anywhere you want” he said to himself out loud.

So if the jollycost actually happened and Santa saved the elvish from evil candy chambers, the elvish should be building monuments to Santa and singing his praises. Instead they write article after article, policy after policy about how bad Santa is and needs to be gotten rid of.

The elvish are ungrateful to their liberator. Santa charged into sparkly crystal fire to save them, and now they're telling the generations that came after that Santa and his reindeer deserve to die for the crime of being Jolly Old Saint Nick.

Thus begs the following questions: if the jollycost was real, and the elvish hate their liberator doesn't that prove the grinch right about them?

Or alternatively, if the elvish feel free to attack their liberator, and have no guilt in doing so, doesn't that prove the jollycost never happened?

Assuming that Santa started baking elf cookies since day 1, that makes for 3,153,600 minutes.

6,000,000 Elves baked during 3,153,600 minutes comes out to 1.9 cookies per minute. That means Santa baked roughly 1 cookie every 30 seconds!

Eriador is not going to be the monolithic societies the once were in the last century. Elves are going to be at the center of that. It's a huge transformation for Eriador to make. They are now going into a multicultural mode and Elves will be resented because of our leading role. But without that leading role, and without that transformation, Eriador will not survive.
